

One of the last un-audited expenses in business today is a company's document output system. For example, many businesses unknowingly spend 7% to 12% of their total revenue on document management production and distribution while the average IT staff spends up to 15% of their time on printing related issues. Industry experts state most companies underestimate their printing needs by as much as 50%.

One of the real stumbling blocks in identifying problem areas and implementing a more efficient document output system is determining where to turn to help uncover all the direct and indirect costs incurred when producing documents
